AN ASSESSMENT OF THE FACTORS AFFECTING THE PUBLIC PROCUREMENT PRACTICES IN STATE-OWNED CORPORATIONS.

A case study of National Hospital Insurance Fund in Nairobi.

STUDENT NAME: AHMED DAVID SHEIKH

REGISTRATION NUMBER: L126/14057/2009

A RESEARCH PROJECT SUBMITTED IN PARTIAL FULFILMENT OF THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE AWARD OF DIPLOMA IN PURCHASING AND SUPPLIES MANAGEMENT, UNIVERSITY OF NAIROBI.
DECLARATION

I declare that the research proposal is my original work and has never been presented to any learning institution for the purposes of examination.

Name: AHMED DAVID SHEIKH

Registration number: L126/14057/2009

Signature

Date: 15/12/2011
DECLARATION BY SUPERVISOR

I declare that the project proposal has been presented with my approval as the student's university supervisor.

NAME: DR. ABUGA

SIGNATURE: ...........................................

DATE: 02/02/2012 ......................................
ABSTRACT

The purpose of the study was to assess how different factors affect procurement practices in state owned corporations a survey of National Hospital Insurance Fund in Nairobi. The specific objectives of the study were to investigate how various factors affects the procurements practices. The findings of the study were important to the state owned corporations, who would want to do further research on this study. The researcher used descriptive research design which was exploratory in nature as it used surveys and interviews.